the 1990s, the number of people in the UK who are employed in the public sector has increased by 1.5 million, from 2.5 million in 1980 to 4 million in 1998. The public sector has become a major employer in the UK, and its growth has been a major factor in the overall growth of the economy.

The public sector has also become a major employer of women. In 1980, women made up 40% of the public sector workforce, and by 1998, this had increased to 50%. This increase has been driven by a number of factors, including the growth of the public sector, the increasing participation of women in the workforce, and the increasing demand for public services.

The public sector has also become a major employer of people with disabilities. In 1980, people with disabilities made up 1% of the public sector workforce, and by 1998, this had increased to 3%. This increase has been driven by a number of factors, including the growth of the public sector, the increasing participation of people with disabilities in the workforce, and the increasing demand for public services.

The public sector has also become a major employer of people from ethnic minorities. In 1980, people from ethnic minorities made up 2% of the public sector workforce, and by 1998, this had increased to 5%. This increase has been driven by a number of factors, including the growth of the public sector, the increasing participation of people from ethnic minorities in the workforce, and the increasing demand for public services.

The public sector has also become a major employer of people who are over 50 years of age. In 1980, people over 50 years of age made up 10% of the public sector workforce, and by 1998, this had increased to 15%. This increase has been driven by a number of factors, including the growth of the public sector, the increasing participation of people over 50 years of age in the workforce, and the increasing demand for public services.

The public sector has also become a major employer of people who are under 25 years of age. In 1980, people under 25 years of age made up 5% of the public sector workforce, and by 1998, this had increased to 10%. This increase has been driven by a number of factors, including the growth of the public sector, the increasing participation of people under 25 years of age in the workforce, and the increasing demand for public services.

The public sector has also become a major employer of people who are part-time workers. In 1980, part-time workers made up 10% of the public sector workforce, and by 1998, this had increased to 20%. This increase has been driven by a number of factors, including the growth of the public sector, the increasing participation of part-time workers in the workforce, and the increasing demand for public services.

The public sector has also become a major employer of people who are self-employed. In 1980, self-employed people made up 5% of the public sector workforce, and by 1998, this had increased to 10%. This increase has been driven by a number of factors, including the growth of the public sector, the increasing participation of self-employed people in the workforce, and the increasing demand for public services.
